The Australian Trade Commission, Austrade, is the Australian Government's trade and investment development agency. Through our global network, we assist Australian companies to succeed in international business, attract productive foreign direct investment into Australia and promote Australia's education sector internationally.

Based in international markets, Austrade's Trade Commissioners are responsible for the development and implementation of market strategies and the achievement of trade, investment and international education outcomes within Austrade posts.

Day to day responsibilities include providing leadership to the post, ensuring the delivery of Austrade's services and management and coordination of post planning, resourcing and performance.

Development of networks of key decision makers, customers and contacts in the market and liaison with other government agencies and industry will be key to your success.

Trade Commissioners will have a sound understanding of market dynamics and sectors relevant to the market.

To succeed applicants will bring to Austrade sound commercial acumen and the credibility to contribute to international trade and investment activities. You will have a strong record of achievement in management within a complex organisation and significant experience in international trade and investment.

Fluency in relevant languages will be highly regarded and may be required for some Posts.

Applicants must be Australian citizens and be willing to undergo a security assessment for clearance at Top Secret level.

Applications close at 11:30pm AEST Sunday 30 October 2011.
